Noah's First Haircut

Step inside the cozy salon where soft snips make big smiles.

Going to the Salon

My name is Noah. Today I am going to get my first haircut. My grown-up and I walk into the hair salon.

Waiting by the Fern

The receptionist says hello at the front desk. We sit on a bench near a big green fern. We wait for my turn.

The Tall Chair

The hairdresser shows me a tall chair by a wide mirror. A booster seat helps me sit up high. She puts a soft striped cape around me.

Water and Comb

The hairdresser sprays a little water on my hair.
Psst, psst. It feels cool and tickly. She combs my hair smooth.

Snip, Snip

Next come the scissors. Snip, snip. Cutting hair does not hurt, like trimming fingernails. Many children feel a little nervous at their first haircut. That is okay.

The Buzzing Clippers

Sometimes the hairdresser uses clippers. They buzz, bzzz, like a tiny fan. The buzz can tickle near my ears. I can try holding my grown-up's hand and counting slowly to ten.

A New Look

Soon the haircut is done. The hairdresser brushes the little hairs away and takes off the cape. I look in the mirror and see my new haircut.

Going Home

My grown-up and I wave goodbye to the receptionist. My head feels light and fresh. My first haircut is finished, and I feel calm.

THE END

Step inside the cozy salon where soft snips make big smiles.
